DAILY LIFE AT CROSSWELL

Our children live in a family-like cottage environment, staffed 24/7 by loving cottage parents. All our children attend public school and are encouraged to participate in extracurricular activities.

Children spend their summers at the pool, have frequent pick-up basketball games, work in the local community, and become involved in their schools through sports, clubs and the arts.

Like any home, our young people have rules and regulations to follow when they are with us. They do household chores, have homework time, participate in church and go to community events.

We also use the time to teach them important life skills, build good work habits and money management, teach coping skills and support them emotionally.

WHO WE SERVE

We accept referrals from any concerned person who knows of a child in need of a safe, stable, Christian environment. There are many different reasons that children, youth, and families may seek our services. Some of these reasons may include the death of a parent or both parents, separation or divorce, financial crisis, homelessness, serious health problems, or the physical inability to care for a child. Other families may be experiencing chemical dependency or abuse issues.
